

Vision Generation and Ignite Monash, in conjunction with Monash University and World Vision Australia, would like to invite you to the launch of World Vision's first international advocacy campaign, Child Health Now by attending a forum on:

'How best to achieve Millennium Development Goals 4 & 5 by 2015'

- MDG 4: Reduce Child Mortality
- MDG 5: Improve Maternal Health

The panel for this evening will be made up by the following guests:

Reverend Tim Costello – The CEO of World Vision Australia and one of Australia's leading voices on social justice issues. Mr. Costello will be mediating the panel.

Sue England - A consultant midwife with 20 years midwifery experience. Ms England provides maternal and child health and nutrition advice and technical support to World Vision funded health projects by evaluating and offering advice on ways to improve.

Dr Chris Morgan – A Principal Fellow at the Burnet Institute's Centre for International Health, Dr Morgan is a public health physician and paediatrician with a special interest in international child and adolescent health.

Dr Alison Morgan - Dr Morgan has 20 years experience in education and training in primary health care and maternal and child health. She has an interest in the development of international health systems and their workers, and has hands-on experience working throughout South and South-East Asia.

Rami Subhi – School of Paediatrics at the Royal Children's Hospital.

Meg Howe – Registered nurse studied Public Health at Syddansk University in Denmark. Working as a Community Health Promoter, Ms Howe has been involved with World Vision for 8 years and was the Youth Ambassador in 2007.

Please join us at 5.30pm on Thursday, 18 August 2011 for drinks and nibbles, and to wander the stalls of Vision Generation, Ignite and Global Health Gateway.

Formal discussions will begin at 6pm.

Monash University, Clayton Campus, South Lecture Theatre 1

A strong and continuing partnership between Monash University and World Vision Australia began in September 2009. Monash University has supported the endeavours of World Vision and Vision Generation Monash (World Vision's youth movement). In May 2011, Monash University became Australia's first Child Health Now Community; this discussion will celebrate the launch of this initiative.

We would appreciate an RSVP to kelsey.paske@vgen.org by August 14th for catering purposes.
