ELECTIVE ADVICE

Possible elective options

You have the opportunity to do a number of elective units as part of the Bachelor of Health Science course. Elective units can be any unit on offer at any Monash campus worth 6 credit points that you meet the pre-requisite requirements for and that fit your timetable so you don't have clashes with your core (required) units.

There are a couple of ways you can think about choosing electives:

- a) strategic (i.e. pick electives based on skill sets or knowledge you know you need/should have for a particular job role you are interested in);
- b) enjoyable (i.e. pick electives based on things you know you enjoy); or
- c) be strategic and do something you enjoy.

To look at information about different units, you go to the Monash University Handbook. It is available at: <http://www.monash.edu.au/students/courses/>

To search the Monash University Handbook for a particular keyword or interest area, go to: <http://www.monash.edu.au/pubs/handbooks/search.html>

Please note that units are given a code to identify them. The code begins with three letters and then 4 numbers (i.e. HSC2051). The three letters relate to discipline of study, while the first number tells you about the level of the unit (ie. HSC2051, is a second year level unit). For year one of your course you should look for level 1 units (i.e. HSC1051).

Some elective suggestions

Based upon some information provided to us from the workforce, other students and our thoughts, some possible considerations for electives (available on the Caulfield campus) that you might think about for Year 1 are shown below.

Please note that you do not have to follow the same area of study for both semesters (i.e. you could do a language in semester 1 and a history unit in semester 2 if you meet the unit pre-requisites).

You do not have to do your electives on the Caulfield campus (so long as the timetable fits).
