Mindfulness course

October 10, 2015 (Saturday)

Cost: $150 plus GST

Time: 1.30 am to 5.30 pm

Venue: Monash University, Notting Hill campus

Due to the popularity and excellent feedback from the Mindfulness course held last February 21, 2015, we will be holding another Mindfulness course later this year. Mindfulness-based approaches have generated a great deal of clinical and research interest in recent years. Mindfulness is a generic skill involving training attention and attitude.

It has a wide range of solutions to improving immunity, neuroplasticity, epigenetics, and enhanced clinical performance. This interactive workshop will explore the principles and application of mindfulness based practices for personal and professional use.

The Mindfulness course aims to increase awareness of the importance of stress and mental health problems and their effects on wellbeing, performance and leadership. It will also increase knowledge of the indications for and role of mindfulness in managing mental and physical illness.

Learning Outcomes:

1. To increase knowledge of the indications for and role of mindfulness in managing mental and physical illness;
2. To increase skills in the cognitive and practical aspects of mindfulness meditation and mindfulness-based stress management;
3. To apply mindfulness to personal and professional life for the enhancement of wellbeing;
4. To apply mindfulness to personal and professional life for the enhancement of leadership; and
5. To apply mindfulness to personal and professional life for the enhancement of performance.
The John Murtagh Update Course
4-6 November 2015

Time: 8.30 am - 5.30 pm
Venue: Rendezvous Hotel, 328 Flinders Street, Melbourne, 3000

The course is named in honour of Professor John Murtagh and his extraordinary contribution to Family Medicine. The 2015 Annual Update Course is proudly convened by the Department of General Practice.

This is the 37th year that the course has been offered. The update course is a celebration of what is best in clinical general practice learning, and in an era of electronic clinical education offerings, it continues to be a mainstay in practising GPs’ educational calendars. It also provides an opportunity for GPs to network with their colleagues.

Topics:
- John Murtagh key note presentation
- Asthma
- Cardiology
- Dermatology
- Emergencies in General Practice
- Gastroenterology
- Geriatrics
- Infectious Diseases
- Infertility/Antenatal/Perinatal
- Men’s health
- Neurology
- Pathology
- Psychiatry
- Sleep Disorders

NEW IN 2015

Co-branded courses with The Black Dog Institute

Dates: Various – see list below
Venue: Monash University, Notting Hill Campus

The Black Dog Institute offers GPs a selection of interactive workshops focused on various aspects of recognising and managing mental health presentations in a general practice setting. These workshops provide both theoretical and practical resources for application in both assessment and treatment of these common conditions. Individual course descriptions detail the learning objectives and the accreditation levels for each workshop.

1. Dealing with depression – 28 March 2015
5. Managing Bipolar Disorder in General Practice – 29 August 2015
7. Depression Dilemmas – 31 October 2015

Primary Care Office Procedures Workshop
1-2 August 2015

Venue: Royal Australasian College of Surgeons, Melbourne

This certificate course will provide the clinician with a range of intermediate level skills including the ability to understand and manage a variety of common problems that require office based surgical intervention, such as foreign body removal, lacerations, sebaceous cysts and ingrown toe nails.

This workshop is suitable for GPs, overseas trained doctors, newly arrived doctors seeking to work in rural networks, nurse practitioners and VR doctors who wish to further develop their surgical office-based skills. Participants are able to practice their suturing and procedural techniques in a supportive environment.
