An exciting opportunity exists to undertake PhD research under the supervision of Professor Margaret Alston and the team in the GLASS Research Unit. GLASS is working to enhance women’s leadership and pursue gender equality, social sustainability and the further empowerment of women and girls through the high quality and relevance of its research and publications.

One PhD Scholarship, funded by the Faculty of Medicine, Nursing and Health Sciences, Monash University, is available to commence in 2012. It can be undertaken on any topic related to one of the four key focus areas of GLASS – gender and climate change, violence against women, social sustainability and women’s leadership.

The scholarship will be awarded on the basis of a written application and an interview. The successful candidate will also be required to meet the criteria for admission to Monash University’s PhD program www.mrgs.monash.edu.au

Please email Dr Kerri Whittenbury, Gender, Leadership and Social Sustainability Research Unit, Department of Social Work, Monash University for a copy of the application criteria or for any inquiries.

Email: kerri.whittenbury@monash.edu
Applications close 30 November 2011.
