

Autism in the early years

Professional Development

Assessment Teams, DEECD & Community Health)

Morning session (10.30 - 12.00)

Case study presentations

Local professionals will present several de-identified case studies for group discussion.

Case study instruction is an excellent strategy to train professionals and also to bridge the gap between theory and practice. Cases are stories with a message. They are stories to educate. The case study presentations will focus on the individual and often complex needs of young children with an ASD and their family.
